

Mahaweli Reach

Mahaweli Reach is one woven with determination, courage and a sense of adventure. Atul Panabokke, a tea planter by profession, embarked on this project in the early seventies, few would have believed that this venture in a fledgling industry would progress so far. His vision and commitment together with the able assistance of his wife and family laid the foundations for these remarkable achievements. Atul Panabokke's vision of a modern hotel which maintains the old world charm and hospitality seems to have become a reality.

Commencing as a four roomed guesthouse where guests were welcomed and looked after by the owner, his gracious wife and sons, this enterprise has developed steadily. His sons, Jayantha, the Managing Director, and Mohan, have managed to combine traditional with modern, guided by their late mother Dolly, founder director and former chairperson of the company, developing a unique style of management.

Firstly it was upgraded to a twenty-three roomed hotel and later to fifty rooms and finally renovated and repositioned as a one hundred and twelve roomed five star hotel. Present days, the Universal Group of Maldives, has a major stake hold with Mahaweli Reach. Being one of the largest hotel chains in Maldives, this alliance is considered mutually beneficial and continues to make Mahaweli Reach Hotel a front runner in the industry. In the recent years the story of Mahaweli Reach has taken yet another twist.
